Case Study Brief: Ohio Charter School

VHS developed a personalized learning program for a K-12 Ohio public college prep charter school that included allowing students in younger grades to take carefully chosen online courses, and VHS online teachers to facilitate the content to this school's students online. With one period per day allocated to VHS coursework and their own classroom teacher on-site to assist with projects, the school hoped that by their senior year students would be able to be successful in the VHS course of their choice independently. This customized program led the administration to achieve the results they had set forth from their blended curricula.
